Goals for February

- 1 Close the gap in Maths word problems — introduce structured reading strategies for questions.
- 2 Build writing frameworks for English — paragraph structure and argument development.
- 3 Advance chess to mid-game tactics and introduce basic positional awareness.
- 4 Extend focus session length target from 25 minutes to 35 minutes.
- 5 Begin public speaking exercises — short 2-minute topic presentations each session.

TUTOR'S NOTE TO PARENTS

Emeka has had a strong first month. His enthusiasm for chess has been a pleasant surprise and we are using it deliberately to build his strategic thinking in Maths. His focus has improved noticeably — he settles into work faster and sustains concentration longer each week. One missed session due to illness; we covered the material the following week. We expect continued strong progress in February. Please encourage 15 minutes of independent reading nightly — this will accelerate his English results significantly.

Goals for March

- 1 Introduce quadratic patterns and basic algebra — targeting 85% in Maths.
- 2 Move to essay writing with argument and counterargument structure.
- 3 Chess: tournament-style practice games and time management under pressure.
- 4 Focus target: 45-minute sustained sessions without prompting.
- 5 Verbal: begin impromptu speaking — 1-minute talks on random topics.

TUTOR'S NOTE TO PARENTS

February has been Emeka's best month yet. Full attendance, full engagement. His chess win in session 7 was a breakthrough moment — the focus and pattern recognition he applied directly translated into his Maths algebra work that same week. Verbal confidence is now a genuine strength. His presentations were clear, well-structured and delivered with eye contact — a remarkable shift from January. Parents: please continue the nightly reading habit. We recommend introducing him to a chess app (Lichess or Chess.com) for light practice between sessions. March should see him break the 80% average threshold.
